Can printing be eco-friendly?

Our products are available as FSC® certified on request. But... If environment matters for you, then your choice is HUV printing. Being eco-friendly printer is not only about using the FSC, or recycled paper, but also being responsible for use of electricity, inks and recycle of waste. HUV technology brought printing to the new level. A single HUV lamp can cure up to 400% ink coverage plus coating at maximum press speed – reducing energy required for curing, lowering heat output, and omitting no ozone or odours, making the environment more enjoyable for staff.

This technology allows your printed sheets to be immediately dry. Moreover, HUV inks give sharp and live colours not only on matt and gloss stock, but what is more important on uncoated paper too. The inks dry immediately, using fewer lamps and less energy, and leave great images to admire.
